6 O'Clock This Morning.

Fears that the East River May Be Closed To-Morrow.

Skaters and Sleigh Owners Are Filled with Joy.

To-day has the doubtful honor of being the coldest of the season in New York, It was only one degree above zero at 6 o'clock this morning. That was a duplicate of Jan. 10, but on the latter date it warmed up as the day advanced, while to-day the frigidity has remained so that at noon the thermometers at Perry's and Hudnut's registered only sedegrees above, while the official spirit on top of the Equitable Building had risen to 7 only, making Jan. 16 the coldest day in 1802-3. This conduced to the making of more ice on the ponds and lakes, rivers and bays, and all ever this morning, for the reason that to-day the forenoon several steam tugs were kept busy breaking up a fine coating of ice that had formed on the kill von Kuli from the Jersey to the Staten Island shore.

The thermometer at Weather Observer Westerveit and Michael Doherty Bauer's unofficial home, on Staten Island, Eyrnes's charges of neglect of duty. registered 5 degrees below zero early this morning, and the boatmen say that if the interest because of the high rank of the ac-morning, and the boatmen say that if the conditions do not change before night there will be such ice on the Kill von Kull tomorrow morning as cannot be broken up by the tugs.

Meantime the lads and lassles of The Eventian of the such in the Greater State ballwick are painting in the resident of the convergence on every decent road from Trenton to New London and Perth amboy to Poughkeepsle.

There is skating bow on all the lakes within the Greater New York's boundaries.

The smaller lakes in the parks are being cleared of show to-day, and about one handred thousand skaters will enjoy the sport this afternoon and evening, while not less than one hundred thousand best girls "will snuggle beside their "steadles" behind the spanking team, the bob-tailed hare or the old gray, spinning up the avenues, the boulevards and the snowclad drives, with a smack of something not and a drop of something noticer at the readhouse that marks the further end of the sleigh ilde.

There is another side to this story hot so inviting, however. The ferrymen and those who ply in tugs, steamers and other craft about New York Harbor look apprehensive as they discern the situation and the probabilities.

The ferry boats had some trouble in the to snore.

The first boat from Thirty-ninth street, south Brooklyn, leaving there at 0.30 o'clock, spent a whole hour making the voyage to south Ferry. She had to cut her way through solid ice with which the bay was coated.

Buttermilk Channel is quite frozen over, and all the East River ferry lines above south Ferry, as Wall, Fulton, Roosevelt and Grand Streets, have had difficulty in making their regular trips on line.

The quickly forms whenever the water is left undisturbed for a few minutes in such weather as this, and each cake of lee floating in the river grows in size nourly.

To add to the difficulty of the situation, the weather vanes all indicate a southwest breeze, and the boatmen say that a continuance of that during the flood tide this afternoon will fill East River with the floating ice that is now huddled and beaped up on the Jersey flats and along the Staten Island shore and in the lower bay, and that means that with a nipping frost te-

" Plunger " Shaw Buys the Washington Park Privileges for $250,000.

HOW TO PICK THE WINNERS.

Things of the Meeting Up to This Time.

Despatches from Chicago state that Frank haw, the well-known plunger and bookmaker, has secured the betting privileges of the Washington Park meeting for a sum stated to be $550,000. This is an enormous amount of money to pay for such a privilege, and yet Mr. Shaw will probably realize handsomely on his investment. The city will be crowded with World's Fair excursionists during the time of the Washington Park races, and the meeting should be the most successful in the history of the Club. The public will probably realize that the $250,000 will come out of their pockets. It means that they must support too bookmakers at the rate of $100 a day. The expenses of these gentlemen will average $50 each and this means $5,000 more, In all, the public will contribute $15,000 d day to the betting ring, not to mention the spending of admission fees, paying fancy prices for refreshments and the extertionate dime for programmes. Racing is a sport of kings, lowever, and it comes high.
